Justice Newton, it is Thought, Will Not Be Tried.

WHAT ARE THE CHARGES

BROOKLYN, Feb. 20 .- The order granted by Judge Cullen does not give much satisfaction to John Y. McKane's friends, or inspire expectations that he can be kept from going to Sing Sing prison this week. This order requires the prosecution to show why a certificate of doubt should not be granted to McKane. It is not believed that Mc-Kane's lawyers can show that Judge Bartlett made any blunders during the trial, or in the charge to the jury.

The court presented a busy scene this morning when the twenty-four followers of McKane, indicted by the January grand jury for violating the election laws, were called upon to plead before Judge Gaynor. All the inspectors are indicted for misconduct and conspiracy. Constable Jamison is indicted for perjury. The indictments against Justice Newton are for conspiracy and for contempt of court and omission and violation of duty in enforcing the election laws. Justice Sutherland is indicted for conspiracy and oppression. Justices of the Peace J. S. Stricker and W. Gladding are indicted for neglect of duty in enforcing the election law.

Justice Gaynor said his prominence the defendants last fall made it out of the question for him to act. He then sent the cases over to Justice Cullen. The names of Newton, Gladding and Sutherland were called. This comprised the town board of Gravesend, and the indictment against the men is failure to redistrict the town, as required by law. The counsel for them asked until Friday, to which the prosecution agreed, and it was allowed. The election inspectors were called, and in some cases It is thought that Judge Newton will be

At the Annual Session of the Woman's Suffrage Convention.

A COLORED WOMAN'S ELOQUENCE

A Warm Welcome Assured to the Delegates in Atlanta.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS

The final day of the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association began shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. There will be another session this evening and tomorrow morning a final executive committee meeting for the purpose of clearing up the odds and ends of business of the convention. Tomorrow evening there will be a reception at Willard's Hotel tendered to the delegates by the District Suffrage Association.

This morning after the reading of the minutes of yesterday Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton made an informal report of the committee on press work for the convention. Miss Howard of Georgia stated to the convention that an effort had been :nade to opinion of the people of Massachusetts on get all of the Georgia papers, in order to see what reception they would give to the news that the convention had decided to go to Atlanta next year. All the papers that had been seen had had the most flattering accounts of the convention and had crowed loudly over the success of Atlanta in get-ting the convention for 1895.

"Time was," said Miss Anthony, "when Atlanta would not have been pleased at capturing the suffragists for their annual meeting, but the time is coming when any city will feel honored to have them." Miss Virginia Deane, a colored woman of Georgia, was introduced to the convention and made quite an eloquent and florid address on the relationship between the two races and the rights that colored women have in common with white women. She said that the hard times were caused by the fact that men sometimes lose their heads, but that the time is coming when the state will be governed in accordance with the truths of God, when women shall have a just share in the management of the gov-ernment and its affairs.

The Famous Colored Slave. At the conclusion of Miss Deane's address Miss Anthony said that never since the days of old Sojourner Truth, the famous colored slave in New York, had she heard such an eloquent address from a colored woman. She then went on to tell some incidents in the dife of that old woman, who had been for torty years a slave, and who became a famous orator in the cause of woman and her freedom.

Mrs. Avery announced to the convention with deep regret the death of Anna Ella Carroll, whose claim to having been the originator of the plan of the Tennessee campaign has been recognized as just by almost everyone who was cognizant of the case. An effort had been made to secure a pension for Miss Carroll in recognition of what she had done for the cause of the Union, but the effort has always been a failure, although favorable reports have always been made on the claim. Miss Anthony followed Mrs. Avery in paying a brief and beautiful tribute the memory of this woman, whom she had known well in life. Miss Gillette, the president of the Wimo-daughsis of this city, was introduced to the convention and made an interesting address of five minutes on the origin, growth and purposes of that institution. growth and purposes of that institution. It had had its beginning with the woman suffragists, but has not limited itself to that cause. The order of the Daughters of the King is a purely Episcopal organization, doing for women what the St. Andrew's Brotherhood does for men. It should not be con-fused with the King's Daughters, as it commonly is, for the two are entirely distinct societies both as to membership and to work. The Daughters of the King, although organized in New York in 1885, is a society little known in this city from the fact that there have been no chapters formed here until within the last two years or

A Council Formed.

But in last December the six chapters in the city joined together, formed a local council, and since then the order has grown largely here, both in numbers and in prominence. Just exactly on what lines they should work, however, has been something of a puzzle, as the order is so new and contains so few experienced workers in Washington. The local council consists of delegates from the various chapters, and al-though this body has had a couple of busigathering together of all the members of the order heretofore. Today's meeting will consequently give everybody an opportunity to meet everybody else and to talk over matters both formally and informally. Mrs. W. G. Davenport, the president of the local council, will make an address, in which she will tell her hearers something of the work and of what is expected of them, and try to make the whole thing as clear as possible. The rules and pledges of the Daughters of the King are very strict in some ways, and there is no chance for any triflers in the organization. According to the constitu-tion, the sole object of the society is the "spread of Christ's kingdom among young women and the strengthening of parish life." Every young woman joining pledges herself to wear the badge of the order, a narrow Greek cross, to aid the rector in his work and each week to make an effort to bring within hearing of the Gospel so young woman. The purposes of the society are purely spiritual, and the members are not supposed to give entertainments, or do anything toward-raising money. London was about whose name is not in the directory, but who is known among a big circle of residents and frequenters of Jackson City, where he has made his headquarters for some time, as "Chappie." The two were bantam weights, running ninety pounds neved selling by traders. A conspicuous apiece.

The fight had been well advertised among sylvania depot. They filed into two big omnibuses and about a dozen cabs and left through the moonlight night, out by Anacostia and past the insane asylum for a to come into the market with sustaining secluded spot near Fort Foote. They were orders in order to protect their heldings followed to the District line by a squad of city blue coats, but when they were out in Maryland the "cops" said good night to the crowd and came back to the city. here for a long time. For eleven rounds they fought, hitting hard and fast, and without much gain by either one until the idend may be used to depress the price bevery last. "Sassee" seemed to hold a little the better hand from the start and gained The Blood Spurted.

"Sassee" seemed the more ccientific, but they both got in many good raps and made the blood spurt over themselves and the freely circulated, ground. Round after round went on until the two plucky pugilists came up for the eleventh time. Neither of them had appar-ently weakened, and the spectators, who were drinking it eagerly in, looked for plenty more fight still.

But they were mistaken. "Sassee" too confident, and in a moment when he was off his guard "Chapple" got in his work and, swinging his right with terrific force, landed on the other's jaw. It came down like a pile driver, and every man there could feel in his bones how it felt.

But "Sassee" was unconscious on the ground and couldn't feel at ail. It was a knock-out blow. Everybody knew the sport was over, and the crowd went home.
